

Customer and chemist role play

Example answer (many variations are possible).

Chemist: Can I help you?

Customer: I have got a cough.

Chemist: Oh, dear.

Customer: I need a bottle of medicine.

Chemist: Would you like a small bottle or a large bottle?

Customer: How much does a large bottle cost?

Chemist: It's £4.45.

Customer: Here you are.

Chemist: Thank you. Goodbye.

Customer: Goodbye.

Customer and chemist role play

In pairs, practise first with the complete script (page 2). Then fold over and practise using the prompts below. Substitutions can be made, e.g. second class stamps, 12 stamps, etc.

Can I help you?
	I can't sleep.
Oh, dear.
	I need a packet of sleeping tablets.
Would you like a pack of 8 or a pack of 16?
	How much does a pack of 8 cost?
It's two pound fifty.
	Here you are.
Thank you. Goodbye.
	Goodbye.

To obtain an editable Word version of this document please upload and share your own resource contribution at www.skillsworkshop.org

THANK YOU